PRESENTED BY THE LANDMARK COLLEGE
INSTITUTE FOR RESEARCH AND TRAINING

COMMONWEALTH ACADEMY
1321 LESLIE AVENUE, ALEXANDRIA VA 22301
APRIL 23, 2010
8:30 am to 2:00 pm

Why do some bright students with good academic skills appear to “spin their wheels” and fail to achieve their potential? Often it’s a result of difficulty with executive functioning. This workshop explores the theoretical basis for executive functioning challenges at school and home, providing educators and parents with insights for designing effective interventions that promote academic success. Participants will expand their repertory of strategies for meeting the challenges of time and task management, with a focus on practicing a coaching approach to student self-management.
